

EMPLOYER ENGAGEMENT QUICK GUIDE

USING LABOR MARKET INFORMATION (LMI) FOR JOB SEEKERS

Supporting informed choice means helping job seekers explore all viable career options. By using LMI in the development of the Individualized Plan for Employment (IPE), counselors can support job seekers to get a clear picture of the job market. Counselors and job seekers can have richer discussions about job seekers' interests, current skills, skills they wish to develop, and job prospects they are interested in.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF USING LMI WITH JOB SEEKERS?

- » Career exploration: LMI can be a tool to help vocational counselors and staff provide information and data to job seekers, which supports the process of making informed decisions about job seekers' career aspirations. Knowing what jobs/careers are in demand and where there are employment opportunities helps match interests and skills with in-demand careers.
- » Identification of trainings that lead to employment opportunities: Once job seekers have narrowed their focus, they can search the job descriptions to determine the training and education requirements, what kinds of skills are transferable, average wages for that type of position, wage variations by geographic region, and unemployment insurance claims reports to see what occupations are most widely affected.
- » Informed choice: LMI tools can also support and guide clients about education and training providers who can help them meet their career and employment goals, thereby providing the highest level of informed choice.

USING LMI IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF INDIVIDUALIZED PLANS FOR EMPLOYMENT (IPE)

- » By using LMI in IPE development, counselors can support job seekers to get a clear picture of jobs that are currently available, the job market, and future opportunities.
- » This leads to richer discussions with job seekers about their interests, current skills, skills they wish to develop, and job prospects they are interested in.
- » This process also supports employers by ensuring that the job seekers applying to their positions are a good match.
