

INNOVATIVE GUIDED REHABILITATION EMPLOYER ENGAGEMENT TRAINING

iGREET is a comprehensive, no-cost training and technical assistance initiative designed to strengthen how vocational rehabilitation (VR) agencies engage with employers. The project supports VR agencies and their workforce partners in building effective, sustainable relationships with the business community and ultimately improving employment outcomes for people with disabilities.

Who is iGREET for?

- State vocational rehabilitation (VR) agencies
- American Indian vocational rehabilitation (AIVR) programs
- Community rehabilitation programs (CRPs)
- Workforce and employment service providers supporting individuals with disabilities

What are iGREET's goals?

iGREET helps strengthen the VR system's capacity to engage employers by:

- providing training on evidence-based employer engagement skills, strategies, and tools
- supporting systemic change in how VR agencies work with the business community
- increasing staff competency and confidence in building employer relationships
- expanding and strengthening dual-customer practices (job seekers and employers)
- improving the quality and coordination of employer services delivered by VR, CRPs, and other workforce partners

What does iGREET offer?

The iGREET portfolio is free to learners and includes the following components:

1. Online Asynchronous Courses

Self-paced courses customized for specific audiences:

iGREET Core

for workforce partners

A comprehensive introduction to business engagement for workforce partners, with a specific focus on VR. This course builds foundational skills for business account managers and agency representatives seeking to develop strong, long-term employer relationships. Topics include effective communication, partnerships, employer services, and implementing a dual-customer approach.

Provider iGREET Foundations for employment service providers

Designed for employment service providers like CRPs, this course draws from the core iGREET content and expands on practical business engagement skills needed by job coaches, placement specialists, and other staff who interact with employers around accommodations, assistive technology, task analysis, ergonomics, and related supports.

TRAINING DELIVERY METHODS

iGREET training delivery includes:

- Online courses
- Microlearning modules
- Facilitated, community-wide presentations
- Webcasts

AIVR iGREET Foundations

for AIVR program staff

Customized for American Indian Vocational Rehabilitation (AIVR) programs, this course adapts core iGREET concepts to reflect AIVR priorities, tribal business communities, and culturally responsive dual-customer strategies.

2. Topic-Specific Training (by request)

VR and CRP agencies may request tailored training to address specific agency goals, challenges, or workforce community needs.

3. Training and Technical Assistance (by request)

Implementation support is available for state VR and AIVR agencies seeking assistance with integrating effective employer engagement practices into their agency structure and operations.

4. Agency Staff Trainer Learning Community

This includes a community of practice, an online course for agency trainers, and access to the iGREET trainer guide and supporting resources.
