

The University of Alabama's CrossingPoints Tier 3 program offers individuals with intellectual disabilities an opportunity to earn a Certificate of Occupational Studies at The University of Alabama (the "CCOS students"). CCOS students that have successfully completed one year of the CCOS program may choose to participate in the APA Primary Panhellenic Recruitment and, if they receive a bid via the mutual selection process, join a sorority.

CCOS students participating in APA recruitment and sorority life do so independently of UA and the CrossingPoints program. As with other activities in which CCOS students participate that are outside of the CCOS program, the CrossingPoints program is unable to provide mentors or other supports to CCOS students during the recruitment process and, if they accept a bid, through their participation in sorority life.

In order to help facilitate the recruitment process for CCOS students, the Alabama Panhellenic Association & Office of Fraternity and Sorority Life will:

- Assign a Sigma Rho Chi (recruitment counselor) specifically to any CCOS student(s) participating in APA Primary Recruitment.
- Help facilitate a meeting between CrossingPoints staff, OFSL staff, the CCOS student(s) and her family prior to the start of APA Primary Recruitment to discuss the APA Recruitment experience and general membership expectations.
- Offer the CCOS student(s) the option, if she wishes, to open her bid in Bryant Denny Stadium with a CrossingPoints staff member, OFSL staff member, and/or her Sigma Rho Chi, prior to other Potential New Members (PNMs) opening their bids.

In order to provide general information to APA chapters regarding the CrossingPoints program, a CrossingPoints staff member will:

- Meet with OFSL staff and representatives from all APA chapters during APA Recruitment work week to provide general information regarding the CrossingPoints program.
- Meet with OFSL staff, members of APA exec, and the designated Sigma Rho Chi during APA Recruitment work week to provide general information that the Chapter's may want to consider when interacting with CCOS students. However, the CCOS student is responsible for informing the Chapter any specific supports and reasonable accommodations she needs in order to participate in the recruitment process and/or sorority life.
- Provide general information to the members and chapter supporters of any chapter that a CCOS student joins.

In the event a CCOS student accepts a bid and joins an APA chapter, the chapter will:

- Be responsible for working with the CCOS student and her family to determine and implement any reasonable supports, accommodations, and/or modifications needed by the CCOS student in order to participate in the chapter's sorority life.

- Identify five members to serve on the chapter's CrossingPoints Committee and to serve as supporters to the CCOS students. The chapter is responsible for setting the expectations for the these supports and defining the role they will play in assisting the CCOS students.
- Be responsible for any and all training and resources the chapter may deem necessary, in its sole discretion, for its members and/or chapter supporters.
- Discuss chapter membership expectations with the CCOS student and her family in the time frame between Bid Day and the first day of Fall classes.

The CCOS student(s) and her parents/guardians understand and agree as follows that:

- Participation in the APA Recruitment process and acceptance of a bid is voluntary and at the CCOS student's sole discretion.
- APA Panhellenic chapters are private organizations that are neither owned nor operated by UA. As is true for all members, participation in the APA Recruitment process and in any sorority events falls outside the scope of UA and the CrossingPoints program. The CrossingPoints program is unable to provide mentors or other supports to CCOS students during the recruitment process and, if they accept a bid, through their participation in sorority life.
- General membership expectations can be found on the UA Panhellenic page, but please note that each chapter has its own membership expectations including, but not limited to, a member's conduct on social media, representation of the chapter, attendance at meetings, maintenance of a specific GPA, etc.
- The CCOS student should work with the chapter to determine and implement any reasonable supports, accommodations, and/or modifications needed by the CCOS student to participate in the chapter's sorority life.
- APA recruitment is a process of mutual selection; as such, the CCOS student may or may not receive a bid.
- Assumption of Risks: Participation in sorority life may include events at bars, pubs, restaurants, fraternity houses and other venues at which alcohol is available. Members are not required to participate in these events. The CCOS student and her parents/guardians should discuss expectations for her attendance at such events and, if the CCOS student chooses to attend, she, like other PNMs, voluntarily agrees to assume and accept all risks, which may include injury and/or death, in doing so. Likewise, the CCOS student and her parents/guardians understand and acknowledge that there are risks, including significant risks, in all activities that can result in loss, damage, injury, or death including, without limitation: activities related to recruitment; activities related to sorority life; travel risks such as accidents, crashes and risks from the operation of motor vehicles operated by UA or other individuals or entities, poorly maintained streets, sidewalks, as well as other criminal acts that can result in serious injury or death; premises risks, including those that may be owned by others and risks from water, such as drowning; injury risks from falls, collisions, or accidents (such as cuts, bruises, torn muscles, sprains, broken bones, etc.); outdoor risks, such as weather, lightning, heat or cold, bites, stings, allergic reactions, dehydration, hypothermia, drowning, sunburn, animals, and limited access to medical care; risks from others involved in recruitment or Greek life (such as transmitted illnesses or others' actions); health risks, such as heart, respiratory or alcohol/drug-related events, and other risks and hazards beyond the control of UA or others. The CCOS student and her parents/guardian acknowledge that they have had an opportunity to investigate these risks before executing this form and, knowing and understanding all risks associated herewith, nevertheless agree to assume and accept all risks that potentially accompany participation in APA primary recruitment and sorority life. The CCOS student agrees to take all reasonable steps to avoid any risks, injury, or death.

- Waiver of Liability and Indemnification: THIS IS A RELEASE OF LIABILITY. The CCOS student, and the parent/guardian of the CCOS student, knowingly and voluntarily waive, release, exculpate, and discharge The Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama, any foundations affiliated therewith, and their respective trustees, officers, employees, agents, representatives, and volunteers from and against any and all loss, injury, death, claim, action, suit, proceeding, settlement, damages, costs, fees, and expenses, at law or equity, known or unknown, foreseen and unforeseen, including but not limited to attorneys' fees and costs of litigation, and liabilities arising out of, connect with, or resulting from the CCOS student's participation in the APA recruitment process and any and all events in any way related to Greek life, such as medical expenses, other costs, injury, sickness, and/or death. The CCOS student and her parent/guardian agree to hold harmless and indemnify UA from and against any such liabilities arising from the CCOS student's involvement in the APA recruitment process and any and all events in any way related to Greek life.

CrossingPoints and Alabama Panhellenic Association FAQ

Q: What is CrossingPoints?

A: CrossingPoints is a program for individuals with intellectual disabilities offering three different programs (Tier 1, Tier 2, and Tier 3). Alabama Panhellenic Association will be given the opportunity to work with CrossingPoints' Tier 3 students who are working to earn a Certificate in Occupational Studies (CCOS) at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa and who are eligible to participate in recruitment (the CCOS students). The CrossingPoints Certificate in Occupational Studies (CCOS) is a non-degree certificate program for young adults with intellectual disabilities who are interested in pursuing postsecondary education at The University of Alabama. CCOS seeks to provide students with intellectual disabilities with high quality and inclusive college experience.

While CrossingPoints Tier 3 students are certificate-seeking vs. degree-seeking, the University of Alabama does consider them to be fully matriculated.*

The Alabama Panhellenic Association and the CrossingPoints coordinators have worked together to create a recruitment experience for the eligible women participants in CrossingPoints. This partnership will provide certain accommodations to Panhellenic policies and procedures to provide a quality experience for the CrossingPoints participants. Other than these accommodations (i.e., the option of a reduced schedule, a semi-private bid day, etc.) and any need for individual reasonable accommodations, the CrossingPoints women will participate fully in recruitment and if they receive a bid and choose to join a Panhellenic sorority, they will have benefits of membership.

Q: Are CCOS students considered matriculated at UA?

A: Yes, the CCOS students are considered matriculated by UA and therefore eligible to participate in primary recruitment, per the National Panhellenic Conference (NPC). Any additional membership eligibility criteria (i.e., GPA, degree-seeking vs. certificate-seeking, etc.) is up to each chapter.

Q: Is participation required for all Panhellenic chapters?

A: Given that CCOS students are considered matriculated by UA, they are able to participate in Panhellenic Primary Recruitment. It is up to each member organization to determine whether a CrossingPoints student meets the requirements of membership for that organization (i.e., requirement that students must be degree-seeking, GPA requirement, etc.).

Q: Are all CrossingPoints Tier 3 students eligible to join a fraternity or sorority?

A: No, membership will be limited to those CrossingPoints students who have already successfully completed one year of the CrossingPoints program.

Q: How many CCOS student PNMs are we able to take in our chapter?

A: APA will work with the Office of Fraternity and Sorority Life Staff and the Release Figure Methodology Specialist to ensure that both the PNM's and chapters' rankings are taken into consideration. Effort will be made to place PNMs in different chapters, should the PNM and chapter rankings permit.

Q: Will the CCOS student PNM be invited back to every round/event?

A: No, the mutual selection process that Panhellenic recruitment is based on applies to all PNMs, including CrossingPoints students, the same way.

Q: How will the CCOS student PNM factor into quota during recruitment?

A: Participation will affect both quota and Chapter Total.

Q: What does membership look like for a CCOS student PNM once she joins a sorority?

A: CrossingPoints participants can expect to enjoy the privileges of membership in Panhellenic sororities, including eating meals at the chapter facility and attending philanthropy and sisterhood events. Any requested accommodations, modifications, or limitations will need to be discussed and finalized between the chapter and the new member and her parent/guardians. Additionally, like with other PNMs, the Chapter (and not the University or the CrossingPoints program) is responsible for working with a CrossingPoints student to implement any reasonable accommodations and other necessary supports.

General Membership Expectations can be found at UA Panhellenic page, but please note that each chapter has their own membership expectations, including but not limited to: conduct on social media, representation of the chapter, attending meetings, maintaining a specific GPA.

Cost Information can also be found on the UA Panhellenic page.

Q: Will the CCOS student's grades be reflect in the overall chapter GPA?

A: Yes. While CrossingPoints Students are non-degree seeking, they are considered fully matriculated by UA and take classes with other UA students.

Q: Will the CCOS student be held to the same expectations as other members?

A: Yes. However, just as is the case with other members, academic commitments, including commitments related to the CCOS student's participation in the CrossingPoints program including, but not limited to classes, labs, study halls, mandatory program meetings, etc., take precedence over chapter events and should be excused.
