

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT: ETHAN SAGEAR

This interview first appeared in the January 2021
National Coordinating Center Newsletter.

What is your name, where are you from, and what college are you attending?

My name is Ethan Sagar. I'm from Delray Beach, Florida, and before that I lived in Minnesota. I am a freshman at SEU Link (at Southeastern University).

What classes are you taking, and which is your favorite?

I am taking American History, Self-Advocacy, an internship class, and SEU 102 which is for all Freshman at SEU to take. American History is my favorite class because I like to learn about other countries.

What do you like to do when you're not attending class?

I spend a lot of time on my computer, watching train and airplane videos. I like to watch news events and NFL stats. (I am hoping Tampa wins the Super Bowl.)

What's good about college?

I like to learn about new things and I like to meet new people, especially from other countries and other cultures. I have met people from France, Uruguay, the Bahamas, and Peru. And also someone from Curacao (that's near Colombia).

Can you share anything about how COVID has affected your college experience, like maybe you learned something new, or overcame a challenge?

I learned how to communicate virtually, taking remote classes. It wasn't too hard. Classes are in-person and virtual now at SEU.

What do you hope to do after college?

I would like to work at an airport or do something with travel or sports. My favorite sports are football and basketball.

What advice do you have for students with disabilities who want to go to college?

Remember that anything is possible and it helps to find a support system.

And who is your support system?

My mom is part of my support system. At college, my mentors are my support system.

What about parents of students of students with disabilities, do you have advice for them?

Anything is possible and you have to believe, and also search for resources that are available.

What is something you'll do once the pandemic is over?

I would like to travel to Ireland. I have already been to the Bahamas, Grand Caymans, Cozumel, Jamaica, St. Thomas, and Egypt. I've also been to Dubai, and also Italy, Monaco, Nice, France, and Barcelona, Spain.
