Factors to Consider

Who is Mapping?

What are we Mapping?

How do we gather the information?

What do we do with this information?

Let's hear from you!

Who is involved in mapping at your organization?

How are community opportunities identified?

Who should be involved in Community Mapping and Networking?

- Designated staff member to coordinate mapping activities, provide support and oversight to ensure process is happening
- Mapping activities can involve staff and individuals, fostering sense of ownership and impact, opportunities for skill building, and building awareness of community offerings
- Everyone has a network! All members of an organization should be included in networking activities, including staff, leadership, board and volunteers, and family members
- Internal “asset mapping” to identify connections and opportunities
