The Equity Conversation

Equity Conversation Framework (Local/state/system)

- Agency approach to capacity building centered on Equity
- 15 Supported Employment Agencies in 4 counties in Western WA
- Over 75 Listening Sessions to include representation from : Everyone is Invited (Board, Leadership, Boots on the Ground, and People with Lived Experience).
- Strategy Action Plans: So What/What's Next.
- Personal Action Statements: One Move.

Results in Systems Excellence (Rise) e-Learning

- Walking the Walk eLearning Community (DETAC) (National)
- 10 Conversations centered on individual, community and organizational capacity building for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion.
 - Hasan Davis, Hasan Davis Solutions: Leading with Self-Compassion
 - Kim Gibson, disABILITY LINK: Data to provide customized services.
 - Chisa O’Quinn, Wise: organizational engagement and strategy alignment

Examples of Lessons Learned

- We can talk about Disability Justice, but Racial Equity is hard.
- We want to participate in the strategy work. Access and capacity is a barrier to who can participate.
- We need engagement, content and the ‘why’.
- We need to call people into conversation about Anti-Racism and Anti-Blackness.
- We need culturally specific services and conversations need to be culturally centered. One size fits all approach doesn’t work.
- The work starts with you and your intentionality.

Lessons Learned – Special Interest Group (SIG)

<https://www.implementdiversity.tools/real-world-examples/special-interest-group-and-open-dialogues-to-promote-equity-diversity-and-inclusion-at-cld>

1. It is valuable that staff can self-select to be a part of the ED&I team and have the option to opt-in as opposed to the material or events being mandated.
2. Open Dialogues are most successful when the housekeeping rules are set early on and when all involved practice patience to listen to others that are not like them.
3. It is helpful to have multiple days for the SIG discussions, as opposed to only one opportunity to engage on a topic or discussion.
4. SIG activities can be a good opportunity to engage your Community Advisory Board or other member groups around equity, diversity, and inclusion.
5. It is valuable to both reach out to partner organizations for new opportunities to engage your SIG and create more space for ED&I related opportunities within the context of your SIG.
